

From Rust Belt Anthology Chicago, published July 2017.

Mornings with Sarah Jindra

There's a sunshine delay on eastbound 290.
There's a bumper in the road on the Edens.

It's all due to a semi and a crashed car and a fire.
Southbound 294 is still suffering.

Starting out, with 90 as the trouble spot.
But the outbound's doing OK.

All is well on the Reagan.

We have no Indiana issues.
Pretty heavy from the Junction on in.

The Ike is 30, in and out.
It's shaking up to be a pretty normal rush hour.

We've got a semi stuck under a viaduct.
Reports of people tobaggoning on Lake Shore Drive.

Got some troubles in the Niles area.
We have no Indiana tie-ups.

Residual delays from a rollover crash.
Count 41 long minutes to get you out to O'Hare.

Broken-down freight train at Archer.
Southbound, we're jammed.

Tough morning in Batavia.

We have a fatality crash.
They just reopened all the lanes,

after a helicopter landed.
IDOT's on the scene.

The Reagan's bumper-to-bumper.
Watch out for some fire activity at 96th and Ashland.

Solid on the Stevenson.

An earlier broken-down car is now off to the shoulder.

64th and Kedzie? That's blocked due to a bus hitting a building.

All four Illinois tollways looking decent.
Watch out for a fender bender at Grand.

The Edens hits a snag at Dempster.
The high-speed chase on the south-bound Ryan has come to an end off 57.

Avoid 167th and Pulaski.

It's still a very active situation.
On the Ike, just a slow pocket at Harlem.

And public transportation is running on time.